FLIER'S FRIEND
Here is the attractive young actress for whom Capt. James A. Mollison, British aviator, named his new trans-Atlantic plane, "The Dorothy." She is Miss Dorothy Ward and is described by Mollison as a friend, reports link them romantically, although Mollison has not yet divorced the flier.

SCREEN LOVER, BRIDE RETURN

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 9.—(UP)—John Barrymore, middle-aged screen lover, brought 21-year-old Elaine Barrie, nee Jacobs, back to Hollywood as his fourth wife today and exhibited bored annoyance that anyone should be surprised.
"Sudden? Not at all. I've been planning this thing quite some time—over a year in fact," he said.
No break in engagement
He insisted there had been no break in his engagement to the young-black-haired New York girl, and said their elopement to Yuma, Ariz., last night was the "earliest possible minute" they could get together after Barrymore's divorce from Dolores Costello became final a few weeks ago.
"I'm very happy. She's a grand girl," drawled Barrymore, sniffing from a bad cold, as he stepped from one of the three staircases of the party engaged on a limited train from Yuma.
Barrymore Nervous
Barrymore, who has been recovering from a recent serious illness, was ashen gray and his eyes were red-rimmed. He lighted one cigarette after another with a hand that trembled. Mrs. Barrymore, following him out of the stateroom sometime later, was fresh as the orchid plumed to her shoulder.
Barrymore waved aside explanations of their reported breakup several months ago with "not at all, not at all, we've loved each other right along," and Miss Barrie took off her glove to exhibit a dime-sized diamond that reportedly was the subject of legal controversy at one time.
"I wired her to come just as soon as she could after I became free," he said, posing on the railroad steps with an arm around Elaine.
On Stage Together
"Now we're going on the stage together. She's taking me back to the stage, thank God. I like the stage, but I've been too lazy to try it."
"We'll do a play in New York sometime after Christmas. I don't know what it will be. Elaine

Loyalists Fight Off Attacks Of Rebels

65TH AUTO VICTIM SUCUMB

INSURGENTS DROP BOMBS ON SUBURBS
Government Confronted by New Menace as Snipers Attack Soldiers
MADRID, Nov. 9.—(UP)—Four rebel tri-motored planes bombed Madrid at 3 p. m. today and raked the working class suburbs with machine guns. Nine bombs were dropped around the northeastern working class suburb of Cuatro Caminos.
The rebel tri-motored planes, escorted by three fighting machines, were met by a hall of anti-aircraft fire and finally were chased off by six Loyalist pursuit planes.
Shells Fall in Streets
The incessant booming of Loyalist cannon from within the city limits was answered now and then by an insurgent shell which fell in the streets. One shell broke the windows of the Press association building.
The Loyalists heavily shell the rebel positions on the other side of the Manzanares river on the west of the city. Various Loyalist tanks were seen moving out northward presumably to attack the rebels trying to circle around the city in an attempt to cut off the Escorial highway.
Handbills Dropped
The planes which bombed Madrid yesterday dropped handbills warning women and children to go to the outlying northeastern section of Guinhalera, bounded on the south by Diego De Leon street and on the west by Castellana drive and the Hippodrome drive, but few complied.
All grocery stores, bakeries and meat stores beginning today will be open only from 7 a. m. to 2 p. m. All other stores and business houses will function from 2 p. m. to 7 p. m. to permit the employees to spend part of the day in military training.
As the fierce fight for the capital continued, a new menace confronted the government.

Deficit For Fiscal Year Over Billion

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The federal deficit for the 1937 fiscal year which began July 1, climbed over the $1,000,000,000 mark today despite a sharp upturn in receipts and expenditures below those of the same period last year.
The $1,001,214,025 reported as of November 6 was approximately 30 per cent less than the $1,442,928,794 figure for the same period last year.
Receipts for the period were $1,443,000, about $12,000,000 above those last year because of increased customs, income tax, and miscellaneous internal revenue collections. Expenditures were $2,445,665,000, about $289,905,000 lower than last year.
The treasury statement showed expenditures for regular activities of the government and recovery and relief were running substantially below those of last year because of repayments by the R. F. C., Commodity Credit corporation, Farm Credit administration and other agencies.

Orange county's traffic toll for 1936 mounted to 65 about 10:30 a. m. Saturday night with the death of Arthur L. UNION CREWS DECLINE TO WORK CARGO

Bloodshed Feared if U. S. Marshal Carries Out Instructions

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—(UP)—A showdown between federal authorities and striking maritime workers over the latter's refusal to handle perishable cargo was averted temporarily today by intervention of Attorney General Homer S. Cummings.
Assistant U. S. District Attorney William Fleet Palmer said Cummings instructed him to take no action for the present on a federal court order, directing the marshals' office to supervise unloading of a banana cargo from the strike-bound liner California.
Maritime workers at a mass meeting last night voted overwhelmingly to refuse to handle the cargo, thus leaving the marshal no other alternative than to employ non-union crews.
Order Disregarded
The order from Washington was said to have been the first instance in local history of a court order being disregarded by specific authority.
Palmer said he acted on his own initiative in asking for authority from the attorney general after the union stand was voted. He said he believed it was necessary to avert bloodshed which might follow the employment of strikebreakers.
Palmer said the attorney general instructed him to take no action, pending a final decision on the matter.

APPEALS COURT UPHOLDS BOARD

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The District of Columbia court of appeals today upheld the right of the National Labor Relations board to conduct employee elections to determine how they shall be represented in collective bargaining with employers.
The decision was rendered in the case of Heller Brothers and Company, a hardware manufacturing concern of Newcomers town, O.
Applies to Other Firms
The rulings also applied to six other concerns which had filed similar appeals. A. C. Lawrence Leather company, Brown Shoe company, Beaver Mills corporation, Cabot Manufacturing company, Bethlehem Ship Building corporation, and Pilgrim corporation.
The suits sought to enjoin the National Labor Relations board from conducting hearings for purpose of determining whether elections should be held.
Friction is Seen
All of the plaintiffs in the cases held the National Labor Relations act was unconstitutional and argued they would be irreparably damaged by the proposed hearings and elections would result in friction, discord, loss of efficiency and destruction of morale among employees.
Justice Jesse C. Adkins of the lower court had held that the National Labor Relations act was constitutional but the appellate court did not express any opinion as to its constitutionality.
The unanimous opinion of appellate court was that allegations in the suits against the board showed neither threatened damage nor irreparable injury.

ONE MAN SAVED AS SHIP SINKS

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—From mountainous seas 200 miles off the S. S. Westernland picked up a life boat containing one man. He apparently was the lone survivor of the 40 persons aboard the German motorship last.
Three times through the raving winds and gigantic seas of the season's worst storm, cracked the S. S. Westernland arrived at dusk yesterday and all night, while she plunged and rolled, all but helpless, her search lights fingered through the wind driven rain and spray. She picked up the one man in the one boat, and at 9:30 a. m. (4:30 a. m. EST) her commander abandoned hope of finding the others and ordered her put about for Southampton, her destination.
The British freighter Seminole had assisted in the search and even the great Queen Mary, largest ship afloat, turned off her course, though she was rolling so heavily that passengers were having difficulty staying in their bunks.
The third of the 15th disastrous calls was picked up by the Dutch tug Wit-Teeze. It said that the forecastle head was under water and the crew was preparing to abandon ship. The second call had said that No. 1 hatch was stove and her holds were filling.

ARCHBISHOP MAY ISSUE STATEMENT

LONDON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The Archbishop of Canterbury, head of the English church, may make a public reference to the friendship of King Edward and Mrs. Wallis Simpson if there is any indication they want to convert their friendship into a marriage, it was reported today.
Technically, Mrs. Simpson is not supposed to think of marriage until the decree nisi of divorce which she obtained recently from Ernest Simpson becomes final next April and she is able to apply for a decree absolute, which would free her to marry for the third time.
Sticklers for form allege the king's preceptor, whose duty it is to investigate any suspicion of collusion in a divorce, would have to take cognizance of any intention of Mrs. Simpson to marry.
Rumors of marriage inclined more and more to the possibility the king might marry Mrs. Simpson privately, if at all, and give her one of his courtesy titles. If he did she might be Duchess of Cornwall, Duchess of Rothesay, Countess of Chester, Countess of Carrick or Lady Renfrew from his title of Baron of Renfrew.

YREKA, Cal., Nov. 9.—(UP)—John H. and Coke Turner Brite, brothers, today pleaded not guilty to three counts of murder at their arraignment before Superior Judge C. J. Lutterell in a crowded courtroom.
After indictments were read charging each of them with killing Martin C. Lange, Joseph Clark and Fred Seaborn, and accusing them of prior conviction and prison terms in Arizona on burglary charges, they were asked, whether they pleaded guilty or not guilty.
"Guilty," John Brite said.
Coke looked sharply surprised and whispered:
"Not guilty."
John then changed his plea to "not guilty," repeating it for each charge.

$500 BEER TAX UPHOLD BY COURT

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—(UP)—The supreme court today upheld the California state law which imposes a $500 per year license fee on importers of beer into the state while levying no such tax on wholesalers dealing in local beer.
The court ruled that the repeal amendment modified the interstate commerce provisions of the Constitution so far as liquor is concerned.
The case aroused unusual interest because the California importers contended the law violated constitutional restrictions against state imposing a burden on interstate commerce.

REBEL PLANES ATTACK MADRID

Fascists Shoot Soldiers

The long boasted "fifth column" rose in the heart of the city. This column, supposed to attack the Loyalists in the rear as the Nationalist army entered, is composed of Fascist sympathizers who have been under cover all during the war.

During the intermittent airplane and artillery bombardments, the men of the "fifth column" took to windows and rooftops in various sectors and sniped at Loyalists. Squads of militiamen were dispatched to all sections from which the sniping came. One militiaman at least, was killed in these searches.

Nine people—eight of them women and children—were killed yesterday and early today in the Nationalist bombardments. About 200 were wounded. Reports that 200 were killed were not true, a careful checkup of morgues and hospitals showed.

Food is Scarce

But the situation was frightful enough. Food was perilously scarce. Nobody knew when, or whence, a Nationalist bomb or shell would drop. The city lived to a continuous obligation of fire, from bomb, from artillery shell, from machine guns and rifle bullet, from hand grenade. The noise rose and fell, but never stopped, and was unlikely to stop again until the city's fate was determined.

There was no doubt that under the veteran army men who now command Madrid with the government at Valencia, the militia has stiffened its defense. It retreated to the city to make its defense, but as this dispatch was written the defense still held.

"I'm still in a tremble, it was such a rush. Mr. Barrymore wired not to wait until Monday, but come right away. I rushed off the stage after my show closed in New York Sunday night, hopped into an automobile with my greasestain still on, and we did a fast drive to Newark airport.

"We had a few hours here yesterday and then took a plane to Yuma. The flight was awful. "I never knew there were so many 'rocks' on the road to Yuma," Barrymore agreed. "She said she wouldn't take a plane back, so we came on the train."

KEN Murray SAYS:

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Mama! That man's here again! Yes sir, Franklin D. Roosevelt has renewed his lease on the White House for another four years.... And today a Sunflower is as hard to find as a Literary Digest forerunner. The Democratic donkey has never been given credit for having a wonderful shape, but this year F.D.R. made it look like a perfect '36.

From the way the New Deal has swept the country, apparently those WPA workers must have swapped their shovels for brooms. Of course, the result was no surprise to Campaign Manager Farley.... Being also the postmaster general, Jim naturally arranged that there should be no change in Franklin's address.

So Remember:

In the future, it will be "As Maine goes, so goes the Literary Digest."

POLITICAL FORUM TO DEBATE CONGRESS, SUPREME COURT

Question of the Congressional right to annual Supreme Court decisions by a three-fourths majority vote will be debated tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Santa Ana junior college building, at the Forum for Political and Economic Education, it was announced today by James Anderson, program chairman.

On the subject, "Resolved, that Congress Shall Have the Right to Annul Supreme Court Decisions by a Three-Fourths Majority," Miss Julia Budlong, pastor of the Unitarian church, will argue the affirmative, and Robert Farrar, instructor in social sciences at Santa Ana high school, the negative.

"This is a subject which will be before the public for discussion frequently during the next few years," Anderson said. "Many people believe the Supreme Court should not have the power to annul laws which are passed by the people's representatives. It is a real question of whether or not some fundamental human rights cannot be decided by the majorities."

The public is invited to attend the debate meeting and to take part in the general discussion.

F. D. R. TELLS OF SOCIAL REFORMS

The conference was called to formulate programs for labor legislation to be presented to state legislatures during the next year. The president said:

"The sessions of the National Conference on Labor Legislation in 1934 and 1935 formulated a program for the leveling upwards of labor standards which commands my wholehearted sympathy and approval and that of my administration."

Unmistakable Terms

"Furthermore, I believe the country has this last week given a mandate in unmistakable terms to its legislators and executives to proceed along these lines until working people throughout the nation and in every state are assured decent working conditions, including safe and healthful places of work, adequate care and support when incapacitated by reason of accidents, industrial disease, unemployment, or old age; reasonably short working hours, adequate annual incomes, proper housing and elimination of child labor."

"I hope that your conference will give serious consideration as to how the objectives may be achieved and that when you return to your states you will assume the leadership in your communities for putting the necessary legislation on the statute books."

Jane Walker, Route 2, Box 91, Orange, and Henry W. Walker, Pomona, were fined $5 and $8 respectively, for speeding, when they were cited into city court Saturday. Harvey Rittner, Route 1, Santa Ana, paid $2 for driving through a boulevard-stop.

ASSISTANT TO STUDENBAKER IN SANTA ANA

In a survey of the 10 federal forums established in the nation Orange County Forum may be designated as exhibit "A", declared Chester Williams, of Seattle, Wash., who was in the city this morning to consult with Homer Chaney, director of the Orange County Federal Forum, and other officials regarding future work of the group. Williams is assistant to Dr. John W. Studebaker, United States commissioner of education. The survey was made in regard to organization and development of the groups.

The eyes of the nation have been focused on the forum which have been experimenting with technique and methods of adult education on the phase of administrative management. Williams declared, and California's forum located in Orange county, has been most active. Administration of each forum has been different.

While the allocation of no additional federal funds is contemplated, the executive stated it is hoped that people of this county will find a way and means of continuing the activity on their own resources and it also is hoped to obtain a congressional appropriation for the purpose as nothing more can be expected from the emergency relief fund. Federal funds approved for the forum here will be paid until February 1, and after that time forums will be conducted under the supervision of school districts until June 30, it is expected.

Williams outlined this morning three objectives of the forum. First, to demonstrate a practical organization of adult education on a community wide basis; second, to stabilize and stimulate free speech and free assemblies and to make it a community enterprise as a practical means of making democracy work, and third to give opportunities to qualified people for skilled employment for their continuance in active work. In Orange county 31 persons are employed in forum work and in the 10 forums of the nation, it is estimated that there are approximately 1500 skilled workers, forum officials state. The first forum was established by the Carnegie foundation at Los Angeles four years ago by Dr. Studebaker and the project now has been taken over by the city.

The 10 forums of which Orange county is one are located in Little Rock, Ark.; Orange county, Calif.; Colorado Springs, Colo.; Wichita, Kan.; Minneapolis, Minn.; Manchester, N. H.; Portland, Ore.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; and Morgan City, La. The first of February 19 new national forum centers will be established in other states which will include Utah, Washington, Texas, Ohio, and North Carolina.

The Orange County Forum, Williams stated, has been unique in that the director, Mr. Chaney has acted both as director and leader.

DAMAGE SUITS CONSOLIDATED IN ONE ACTION

Two damage suits arising from an oil-field fire originating on the property of the H. B. Oil company at Huntington Beach October 10, 1935, were consolidated today for trial before Superior Judge H. G. Ames.

In one action, the Atlas Insurance company sued H. P. Tunstall, drilling contractor operating the H. B. company lease, for damages paid to the H. B. company.

In the other action, the H. B. company appears as defendant, having been sued for $11,443 damages by Bruce Brothers, operators of a neighboring lease, to whose property the fire spread.

That the H. B. company will contend that all fault for the fire rests upon Tunstall, the drilling contractor, or upon Bruce Brothers for the manner in which their neighboring swamp and well was maintained, was indicated today in a statement to the court by Attorney Hanson and Cone, representing the H. B. company.

Attorney Ray H. Overacker, of Huntington Beach, appears as counsel for Bruce Brothers, with Attorney Pinney representing the Bruce Insurance company, Fireman's Fund.

Attorneys McBain and Davis appeared for the Atlas company, and Attorney Runkle for Tunstall.

Brethren of Santa Ana Lodge No. 236, I. O. O. F., are requested to attend funeral services for our late Bro. W. J. Cozad Tuesday, Nov. 10, at 2 p. m. at Smith and Tunhill.

FIRST COUNTY RABBIT SHOW OPENED IN ANAHEIM SUNDAY

Orange county's first annual rabbit show opened yesterday with more than 250 rabbits entered by 58 exhibitors and a steady stream of visitors all day.

The show is being held at 415 E. Center street, Anaheim, for three days with judging to be completed today and prizes awarded tomorrow. It is sponsored by the Orange County Rabbit Breeders' association and is planned as an annual event.

Rabbits have been entered from all over Southern California, the farthest distance being National City and Palms, each sending exhibitors. Los Angeles, San Diego and Orange counties are all well represented.

Judges are George Green of Los Angeles, George S. West and Tom LeVitt of Lynwood, official judges for the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association.

The three awards given yesterday make the winners eligible for the national championship certificates given by the American Rabbit and Cavy Breeders' association, since it makes the third time in each case that first prizes have been given. Others may get this honor when the judging is completed.

The winners of the three classes are a 17 and a quarter pound Samy Flemish, the largest rabbit in the show, entered by Barlow's Mardene Rabbitry of Santa Ana; a White Flemish doe and a Grey Flemish doe entered by F. C. Davies of Orange.

The smallest rabbits in the show are a pair of Polish rabbits, buck and doe, weighing 2 and a quarter pounds each. These are owned by R. W. Farr of Burbank, superintendent of the rabbit show at the Los Angeles county fair. They are raised on hay without grain.

Some very small Himalayan rabbits are on exhibit while there are several rabbits weighing more than 16 pounds. The show has a representative exhibit of colored rabbits as well as white New Zealand. A special 4-H club class will be judged today while there is also an exhibit of furs by the Flemish Fanciers club.

Anaheim high school agricultural classes visited the exhibit all day today.

THREE JAILED AFTER HOLDUP IN BEACH CITY

Following an alleged holdup in Laguna Beach early yesterday morning, three San Diego men were booked at the county jail, on charges of robbery. The trio, Paul Cockerell, 1727 C street; Delton Suggs, 17th and C streets; and William C. Hodges, 1130 Front street, all of San Diego, are charged with the theft of $5.00 from Albert G. Nagy, of the Naval Training station, also at San Diego.

It was alleged by Nagy that the three men stopped him in his car, headed toward San Diego, just inside the southern city limits of Laguna Beach. One man, identified as Hodges by the complainant, displayed a badge, and the three men thereupon took the money from Nagy. No weapons were displayed, nor was violence used.

After the trio had left, Nagy drove back to Laguna Beach, where he made complaint to night policeman Paul Johnson and Richard I. Smith. Police Chief Abe W. Johnson detailed motorcycle officer Howard Allanson to join the search for the alleged robbers, and the crime was broadcast through the sheriff's office. Cooperation between the offices of the Laguna Beach and San Clemente police departments, aided by the broadcast, resulted in the apprehension of Cockerell, Hodges and Suggs at San Clemente. The car driven by the alleged bandits was checked as "stolen" from the owner in San Diego; and, following a search of the automobile, the stolen money was discovered, concealed in the front of the dashboard.

FRUIT 'CHANGE ENDS SHIPMENT OF VALENCIAS

Shipments of the Valencia oranges for the month of October, 1936, through the associations affiliated with the Orange County Fruit Exchange amounted to 937 carloads, 160 cars of which were sold through the Los Angeles distributing plant and 777 cars of Valencia moved to export and domestic markets, a total of 679 cars of Valencia moved to the November 1st, and completes the shipment of this variety for the season. To the same date last year shipments of loose and packed Valencia amounted to 6,281 carloads.

Lemon shipments from this district for the month of October amounted to 22 cars, which brings the total shipments to date of 793 carloads. The total California Fruit Growers Exchange storage as of November 1 shows a decrease of 46 cars as compared with the storage of October 15 and is 32 percent above the storage at the same date last year.

Market conditions on California lemons continued about the same for the month of October, as prevailed for the month of September with values very satisfactory on large sizes and prices only fair for extremely small sizes and off-condition fruit.

The total tree crop movement of Valencia for the season to October 31 as reported by the California-Arizona Orange & Grapefruit Agency for all shippers amounted to 35,317 carloads. It is estimated that approximately 100 carloads will move after November 1 which will clean up the balance of the 1936 Valencia crop. The 1935 Valencia tree crop of all Southern California and Arizona shippers amounted to 14,554 cars less than the record crop of last year, a reduction of 29 percent and 3,023 cars greater than the 1934 crop, or an increase of 9 percent.

The California Valencia market has been maintained on a satisfactory basis on the best grades and the medium to large sizes reports state. Low grades and small sizes, however, have suffered by reason of the very heavy shipments arriving in the markets from Florida. It is reported that the quality of the fruit moving from the state of Florida is fairly satisfactory, in fact much better than most years at this date of their shipping season.

PARTY BURGLAR BEING SOUGHT IN SOUTHLAND

The burglar who broke into the home of Jennie Clark, 510 Stanford avenue, Garden Grove, while she was entertaining 25 women guests Thursday night, and made off with 17 purses containing money and other loot valued at $250, was being sought by Southern California law enforcement officers today on two charges, following discovery of a stolen car here yesterday. The burglar had abandoned it.

Although it was first reported 13 purses were taken by the burglar, when Detective Lieutenant Charles W. Wolford and Officer J. R. Stephenson were called to 123 West Fourth street, by Phil Zakot, pool hall proprietor, to investigate ownership of an automobile abandoned near there a few days ago, they found 13 purses on the floor of the car. A seventeenth was found in the middle of a road in Garden Grove Friday morning.

Officers throughout the state had been hunting the automobile since Elmer Ripella, Long Beach, reported it stolen from him last Thursday. In making a hurried getaway, the burglar and car thief overlooked four $1 bills and three cents which had been dropped on the car floor and $3.50, in one of the purses. The purses, wrapped in an army blanket, contained a 40-cent check; 12 sets of automobile keys; 12 women's compact; seven mirrors, and seven combs.

Accompanied by victims of a rug burglar who looted five homes here and one in Orange recently, Wolford left today for Santa Monica property. The alleged rug thief, James J. Forney, ex-convict, was captured in Los Angeles last week after police shot him. J. H. Allen, confessed "phantom burglar" who looted 37 homes in Orange county, also was captured last week, in South Pasadena.

'War Baby' Now a Young Lady

Here is a hint as to what has become of the "war babies," born during the din of the world struggle. Twenty years ago little Julia Brackeveldt was born in a cellar in battle-torn Ypres, Belgium. Above is a picture of her today, a pretty young lady designated as honor guest for the Armistice Day celebrations in San Jose, Calif., where Miss Brackeveldt now lives.

FULLERTON PASTOR URGES OBSERVANCE OF GOLDEN RULES

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—"We are so steeped in traditions and tied up in commercialism we are inclined to follow the crowd rather than to practice the golden rule," was a charge made against humanity as the Rev. E. Dow Hoffman of the Fullerton Methodist church preached his annual Armistice Day sermon yesterday morning, using as his topic "American Patriots" and taking as his text "neither shall they know war any more."

The Jose Salos radio singers brought a program of music and songs at the evening service. Announcements for the coming week's activity include an all-day W. C. T. U. meeting at the ladies' parlor of the church all day Tuesday, Mrs. Alma Campbell will be hostess and Mrs. Roy Gano, leader.

OFFICER'S GIG IS BEACHED BY GALES

High wind and a rough sea tore an officer's gig from its mooring alongside of the airplane carrier U. S. S. Saratoga and beached it just east of the Anaheim Bay channel Saturday night, Seal Beach officials reported. After a party of six enlisted men, assisted by Chief of Police Lee Howard, located the boat a party of 15 men from the Saratoga, headed by Lieutenant C. W. Van Horn headed the boat back in the water in a successful effort to float it free on the high tide Sunday afternoon.

Petty thieves who stole a fog horn, thirty gallons of gasoline before the navy patrol was established were seen and will be prosecuted, Chief Howard says.

'Orphan Annie'

by HAROLD GRAY

Gray's strip sprang to instant popularity with its theme of constant adventure—with its two leading characters: the appealing slip of a girl with no momma and no poppa, but blessed with a stiff upper lip and a flip way of expressing herself; a diamond-studded, diamond-in-the-rough, big business man and adopted father—Daddy Warbucks!

Today, millions of readers in scores of great newspapers follow the ups and downs of Annie, her flights and philosophies, her troubles and triumphs.

Little Orphan Annie bears the distinction of being a comic strip with heart interest over humor, the kind of a continued story that calls forth choruses of "Atta girl, Annie!" Once you know her, you'll be rooting for her, too.

RICHARDSONS OBSERVE 50TH ANNIVERSARY

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Richardson held open house all Sunday afternoon celebrating their golden wedding. The home was decorated in many large baskets of golden flowers, gifts of friends for the occasion, while their children and their wives assisted.

Mrs. Richardson also celebrated her 71st birthday anniversary, and a special family dinner was a feature after the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were married on November 8, 1886, at New Hartford, Iowa. Earl T. Richardson, a brother, was a guest at the wedding and was also present yesterday.

The Richardsons came to Fullerton 26 years ago and constructed their home on Gilbert avenue on the orange grove, where they since have resided.

Assisting with the afternoon reception yesterday were a daughter, Mrs. Carl Schatz of Fullerton, and three daughters-in-law, Mrs. Ray G. Richardson of Fullerton, Mrs. Hugh G. Richardson, Norco, and Mrs. Lee W. Richardson, Fontana, and a niece, Mrs. Edna Crandall, Fullerton and a grand-niece, Mrs. Garnet Preston, Fullerton, who with Mrs. Lee Richardson, poured tea and coffee. A large wedding cake was served, also. Miss Verde Blythe Richardson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ray R. Richardson, assisted with the guest book.

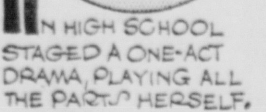

Mrs. Richardson, the guest of honor, wore a wine velvet dress for the occasion. Among the special gifts was an electric clock, a gift of the children. Included in the guest list was a cousin of Mr. Richardson, Mrs. Ellen Sutton, 92 years of age, of Pasadena.

The family guests at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Richardson and daughter, Verda Blythe, and son, Lee Ray; Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Richardson and children, Pearlina, Gerald, and Donald; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Richardson and son, George Lee, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Schatz and Mrs. Schatz's son, Jack Altan Barnett, with the two honor guests.

The Past Noble grand association of the Fullerton Robekah lodge honored Mrs. Richardson at a turkey dinner meeting at the Hughes cafe Saturday night. Nearly 60 attended, it being an annual husband's night affair.

Jimmy Fidler in HOLLYWOOD

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 7.—Idle chatter: Greta Garbo frets some because she walks slightly pigeon-toed. Richard Arlen has a take-apart complex; until electric clocks, his household could never be sure of the correct time. Nutsell description of See-moan See-moan; Gamix. Wally Berry reminds of a bull in a china shop. If Mae West's home should burn, she would save first a miniature, her only likeness of her mother. In need of good pictures to bolster faded prestige: Katharine Hepburn and Al Jolson. Heirs of Thomas W. Dickson ("Birth of a Nation" author) have collected $1,200,000 royalties and are still collecting. Marion Davies is a fool for wide belts.

No eyes more changed by cameras than Elisa Landi's; intriguingly sophisticated on-screen, they are childishly innocent off. Now that Rudy Vallee has smacked over another drunk, maybe he will want to play Jimmy Cagney roles. Studio sign: WILD WALL; means the wall is quickly removable, and not secured to the rest of the set. Jeanette MacDonald is a telephonatic; thirty to ninety-minute chats by wire are common in her life. Edna Mae Oliver's drinking water is shipped to her (five gallons weekly) from an Arkansas spring. Peas from the same pod: Fredric March and Donald Woods.

Dick Powell tells this amusing anecdote on himself: On his last visit to his home state (Arkansas) he was motoring through the countryside, wearing spats. His car ran out of gas and he persuaded a negro boy in a dilapidated wagon to drive him to the nearest filling station. On the return trip, the colored boy asked Powell where he had come from. "Hollywood," Dick answered. The darky grinned broadly. "A's jes what I tole the gas station man," he exclaimed, "the minute I seed dem shoes and uppers you is wearin'!"

If Charles Boyer has a sense of humor, he has managed to keep it concealed, and here is evidence for my statement: A director tells me that while he was filming a picture on desert location, Boyer abruptly refused to work because "the wind had blown sand into his hair and he had no way to get it out." The director stored his tongue in cheek and suggested that Charlie could claim the sand was dandruff.

"Dandruff?" bridled Boyer. "You say dandruff? I wash my hair. I have no dandruff!"

PATRIOTISM, WAR, FORM BASIS FOR FULLERTON SERMON

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—"There is no place in Christian character for personal ambition except to make life richer and better for others, and that personal attitude must be the attitude of the nations if war is to be avoided," Dr. E. P. Ryland said last night at the Fullerton Presbyterian church. He discussed at the opening service the Christian attitude of "Love" and then spent about 45 minutes answering questions concerning war.

He said that real patriotism is right attitude toward neighbors, and that as concerns all phases of living "it is better to suffer defeat than a denial of Christ."

Dr. Ryland was introduced by Dr. Graham C. Hunter, pastor of the church, who announced that next Sunday night two members of the Pasadena Oxford movement along with Harry M. May and C. R. Allen of the Presbyterian church of Fullerton will hold a panel discussion on "Evangelism." This is in connection with the National Preaching Mission activity.

"CEASE FIRING"

World War veterans in Santa Ana and Orange county are recalling the thrill that was theirs at 11 o'clock on the morning of Nov. 11, 1918 when company buglers sounded that call that ended hostilities on the western front. Those veterans will march, next Wednesday in Orange county's greatest Armistice Day parade.

"MINERS CAME IN '49," BUT THERE WERE MORE IN 1850 FEDERAL SURVEY REVEALS

TWO OUT OF every three Californians were miners in 1850. This is the discovery of the research staff of the Federal Writers' project engaged in making an inventory of historical records here.

The popular recognition of the early fifties as a miners' heyday is statistically proven to be correct by these facts revealed in an old volume discovered in the Orange County court house. The state's total population at that time was 91,632, and of this number, 57,797 were engaged in mining.

Women were scarce in those days, also, records reveal. The same census report shows that 77,631 of the total population were males, and 14,001 were women. Other odd facts contained in this volume, published in 1853, show that the state boasted two undertakers, two tombstone makers, one bookbinder, one chemist, two cooper-smiths, one publisher, one piano maker, two students and three bankers.

These and many other little known facts and figures concerning early history have been revealed by staff workers on the local project. Inventories have been completed of records contained in the offices of the clerk and treasurer and the staff is now engaged in recording the archives in the assessor's office.

Several hundred completed forms indicating the nature of records to be examined have been edited for final publication and it is estimated that work locally is about 40 per cent complete. The completed inventories will be incorporated in printed works that will prove of great benefit to historians, attorneys and anyone interested in early documents of the county and state.

In addition to the court house survey the local staff is busily compiling material on Orange county for "The American Guide," a publication of the Federal Writers' project that will record the complete history of every city, town and hamlet in the United States.

Complete surveys on the orange major industries and other industry of the county are being made for incorporation in the final printed set of volumes which will be made available in every college, school and library throughout the country.

Following the inventory in the court house the staff will engage in similar surveys in the Santa Ana city hall and public offices in Orange, Anaheim, Fullerton and other county cities. Individual collections of letters and manuscripts of historical interest will also be examined and recorded. This survey is expected to prove the most exhaustive of any ever attempted locally.

Writing - to Sell -

By ETHEL LOCKWOOD

QUICK START OFTEN BAD

The beginner who bemoans his collection of rejection slips—or the fact that he doesn't seem to be able to turn out salable material, is well off and doesn't know it.

Nothing is more tragic than selling too soon.

I made three sales, hand-running, and it was two years before I sold another story. Meanwhile, all cocky and confident, I wrote reams of material. It didn't sell because it wasn't worth buying. The first three stories sold because I happened to hit upon salable plots. The average beginner who sells his first short story does so in the same way; he happened to hit on something worth writing about.

The real genius, who can write salable short stories without any guidance isn't met every day in the week, nor every day in the year. He needs no instruction. He will solve his own problems, if he has any.

But for the run-of-the-mill beginner to sell his first story, is to court disaster.

I have just encountered my first self-satisfied beginner. He disagrees with teachers and critics, he flings his opinions to high heaven, and he is sure he has just as much of a chance to sell to the Saturday Evening Post as to the lowest pulp. I don't know why he wastes time attending writing class. I have not as yet seen one of his manuscripts; I may never see one. I have a hunch he suspects that I am not greatly over-awed by him. But I'll bet my hat his material won't be one bit better than that of the more modest writers with which he is surrounded.

LET'S NOT KID OURSELVES

We're not established writers just because we have made a sale or two. We're not successful just because we've been writing and selling for years. It takes work and study to turn out anything really worth while, and there are no short cuts with that system. Plots that hold water; so much writing and rewriting. Words—words—more words—must be written before we are ready to leave the kindergarten.

Let's season our success with humility. We're glad for the sales we have made, and we hope to make many more of them. But we don't think we're any better than the writers who haven't sold yet, and we don't think editors, teachers and critics are a bunch of braying jackasses. An inflated ego is a dangerous thing to carry around. It sticks out so. Someone is sure to stick a pin in it.

TIME THE GREAT MAGICIAN

Time brings us experience; turns our failures into successes if we are worthy of them. Time shows us our errors, our foolishness. This is particularly applicable to the writing business. Impatience is a writing enemy. You can't hurry and get anywhere. There is a great difference between work and hurry. Work you need—hurry you should shun.

Hundreds of manuscripts that might have been salable if their authors had taken time to develop them, are lying in the bottoms of trunks and dresser drawers. Hundreds more are cluttering up the mails—right now—and that's all they are, or ever will be—CLUTTER.

There's just one place to keep your feet in the writing business—and that's on the earth—flat and securely. Kicking over the traces, pretending to be successful when we really aren't, won't get us anything but a batch of rejection slips and a bad taste in the mouth.

Christian Science

Paul's words to the Romans, "They which are the children of the flesh, these are not the children of God," constituted the Golden Text in the Lesson-Sermon on "Adam and Fallen Man" on Sunday in all Christian Science Churches, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts.

One of the Scriptural selections in the Lesson-Sermon included these verses from Paul's letter to the Romans: "There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death. For to be carnally minded is death; but to be spiritually minded is life and peace."

The Lesson-Sermon presented also this statement from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "The Son of the Virgin-mother unfolded the remedy for Adam, or error; and the Apostle Paul explains this warfare between the idea of divine power, which Jesus presented, and mythological material intelligence called energy and opposed to Spirit."

It is said that the left hand freezes more rapidly than the right hand.

30,182 ACRES CITRUS LAND UNDER M. O. D.

The greatest number of acres in the history of its organization will be reported at the annual meeting of the Mutual Orange Distributors on November 18. It is announced today by A. E. Isham, manager of the field department. The membership is now represented by 30,182 acres of oranges, lemons and grapefruit, with houses in every major producing district in California and Arizona.

"The acreage figures given are for the net," it was explained by Isham. "During the 1935-36 season, up to November 1, to which date the total acreage is computed, we lost one association and gained three new ones. The acreage now affiliated is a net increase of 17 per cent as compared with the same date last year."

J. H. Strait, president, will direct the meeting for the twenty-first consecutive year, and A. B. Cowgill, secretary, will handle his duties for the thirty-first consecutive time, having been the first and only secretary of the organization.

Reports of the business in general will be given by Bruce McDaniel, general manager, showing affairs during the past year and to the end that forecasts may be advanced as to conditions of markets during the immediate coming season.

"In addition to the fact of now having the most acres since we were organized 30 years ago," McDaniel said, "our members will hear reports of a very active season in all departments. We have made several constructive changes in operations, in keeping with the changing conditions of distribution in the markets in general."

S. A. GIRL IS STUNT RIDER

"She sure can ride," California Highway Patrolman Harry Wild said as he swerved into the drive between the courthouse and annex with a young female motorcyclist right behind him.

He was referring to Miss Helen De Shazo, 1124 South Flower, Santa Ana, Miss De Shazo, a local high school student, had just applied for a motorcyclist's license and made the test drive with Officer Wild.

Mounted on his own "steed," Patrolman Wild led Miss De Shazo a merry chase, but she was always right behind him doing everything he could do, on her own motorcycle.

Striking out down North Broadway the two roared away, Officer Wild related, "I led her on to a side street and had her do circles, figure eights, and even turn sharp corners on the sidewalk."

Miss De Shazo pleased the patrolman with her ability to ride and needless to say got her license. Before she left, however, Patrolman Wild informed her of one of the peculiarities of her license.

"A motorcycle is lots harder to drive than an automobile, yet your motorcycle license won't permit you to drive a car," Officer Wild inferred. "On the other hand," the

THREE-DAY RABBIT SHOW IS PLANNED

ANAHEIM, Nov. 9.—A three-day rabbit show, expected to become an annual event, will open Sunday at 415 East Center street, Anaheim, under the auspices of the Orange Rabbit Breeders' association.

Hazel V. Pike is superintendent of the show with President V. W. Kouch, Vice President V. Mollin and R. J. Howland, Adolph Strempfle, J. M. Bryant and William Heiman serving on her committee. Hazel Reach is secretary and treasurer.

SPEAKS HERE

Dr. Albert D. Stauffacher, one of the speakers at the peace meeting to be held in the high school auditorium tomorrow night.

LECTURER WILL BE ON PROGRAM AT PEACE MEET

Dr. Albert D. Stauffacher, who it to be one of the speakers at the great Armistice peace meeting at the high school auditorium Tuesday evening, is well known throughout California as a preacher and lecturer and as a member of the board of trustees of Scripps college. However, he is probably better known as the father of a student who was elected student body president of Pomona college while absent from Pomona college in China.

Dr. Stauffacher's son Charles was an exchange student at Yenching university, China, last year. A Chinese student from Yenching took young Stauffacher's place in Pomona college. At the student body election last spring Charles Stauffacher was elected president, even though he was in China and knew nothing about the election.

Dr. Stauffacher's interest in world peace may be due, in part, to the fact that he has two sons who would be called to arms in case another war should come. Not only is he concerned for his own sons but for other sons as well, he said recently. He said that war is the destroyer of manhood without giving anything in return except more problems.

Mrs. Kathleen Norris, who also will speak next Tuesday evening shares Dr. Stauffacher's feeling about war and is doing all that she can to keep the nation out of another world war.

Wedding News
Announced To
Guests At Tea

News of the wedding August 8, 1936 in Yuma, Ariz., of Miss Frances Parks and Lucius Conkey was revealed to 75 guests invited to a Sunday afternoon tea which had its setting in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gay Parks, 508 West Fifth street.

Guests were greeted at the door by the new Mrs. Conkey, charming in duobonnet velvet with a corsage cluster of orchids; and by her mother and sister, Mrs. Parks in black velvet with gardenias, and Miss La Vene Parks in blue with a French bouquet.

It was Miss Parks' pleasant duty to present each guest with a corsage of yellow chrysanthemums to which was attached a tiny scroll bearing the interesting information. A romantic story written in verse told of the quiet wedding in Yuma, and of the young couple's plans for the future. Already they are established at 423 1/2 Jasmine street in Laguna Beach, where the bridegroom is employed with the Shell Oil company. He is a graduate of Tustin Union High school, and continued his studies at Junior college. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Conkey, live in Duinaba. The bride, who attended business college following her graduation from Tustin Union High school, is employed in the Tustin High school office.

Between 50 and 75 guests called yesterday between the hours of 2:30 and 6:30 o'clock. Many tapers lighted the rooms, which were brightened with quantities of flowers in colorful arrays.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Russell Goetting (Pauline Parks), wearing a henna and black changeable taffeta frock with Tulleman roses, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. James J. Parks, in black velvet with red roses, poured tea. They presided over a table centered with chrysanthemums and bouquet tapers, and lighted with large gold tapers in silver candlesticks. All service was in silver. Mrs. Jack Casey, who assisted in serving, wore a green silk frock, with a corsage bouquet of gardenias.

Julia Budlong, vice-president, resigned, and Miss Dorothy Wentz was appointed to fill the office.

Pioneer Club Enjoys
Luncheon
In Vandermaast Home

Entertaining members of Sedgwick W. R. C. Pioneer club for their November meeting, Mrs. Anna Vandermaast made a party of the occasion, receiving guests in her home at 425 South Birch street. Chrysanthemums both large and small were in bouquets which formed a pretty setting for luncheon and other events of Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Birkhead, assisted Mrs. Vandermaast in arranging decorations. Flowers and autumn leaves adorned the table, where cellophane-wrapped bonbons served as favors.

During the afternoon session, tribute was paid to the memory of a member, the late Mrs. Katherine Hendricks. Mrs. Hannah Huntington read a poem which had been written by Mrs. Hendricks, and Mrs. Henry Diers read "Just a Golden Sunrise, Just a Word of Cheer."

Mrs. Emma Mosbaugh, president, was in charge of business matters. Mrs. Anna Pendleton invited the group to meet in her home on North Broadway December 5, when there will be an exchange of gifts. Election of officers will take place.

Present were Mesdames Emma P. Mosbaugh, Hannah Huntington, Martha Ritchie, Elizabeth McLeod, Alice Khryl, Johanna Cole, Clara Hoff, Cassie Ferguson, Fanny Cunningham, Anna Pendleton, Lottie Rittenhouse, Rose Diers, Helen Austin and the hostess, Mrs. Birkhead.

Hunting Trip Results
In Roast Duck for Dinner Party

Wild duck secured on a recent hunting and fishing trip into the country near Bishop, formed the main course of a delightful dinner served last night in the F. J. Herzhiser home, 1815 North Flower street.

The host with Ray Wyckoff and Milton Johnson, formed a congenial little group to seek the wild trout in Bishop streams a week or more ago. Not content with enacting the role of Isaac Walton, they also took their guns along and spent one day at hunting. That they were successful was proven by last night's dinner, when a duck, roasted to perfection, turned up served with a whole array of tempting dishes provided by the wives of the group.

Mrs. Herzhiser matched the autumn menu with autumn decorations, using sprays of cotoneaster and scarlet candles for her dinner table, and bowls and jars of the red-berried shrubbery throughout the home.

Bridge was played informally during the after-dinner session, those taking part being Mr. and Mrs. Herzhiser, Mr. and Mrs. Wyckoff, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson and two special dinner guests, Mr. and Mrs. A. Hardy.

Class Members Enjoy
Hospitality
Of Los Angeles Home

Women of the Home Builders' class of First M. E. church shared a happy experience Friday when they were entertained at luncheon in the Los Angeles home of Mrs. George Scarvie, a former member of the local class.

Mrs. Scarvie expressed the prevailing Thanksgiving theme in appointments, using many flowers throughout her home, and arranging her luncheon table with a Thanksgiving cloth, flowers, nut cups and place cards.

During the afternoon plans were discussed for a Christmas party to be held just in advance of the holidays, probably on the night of December 19, with Mrs. Harold Irwin opening her home for the affair. In the meantime will come the regular class meeting on December 4 with Mrs. Ralph Johnson, 606 South Ross street.

Mrs. Scarvie's guests Friday were Mesdames Arthur Kittelson, George Ames, Smith Duckett, Mark Dalley, Edwin Childs, Ralph Davis, Harold Irwin and Mrs. Curtis, Edgar Froeschle, Ray Snyder and son Bruce.

Tux and Gown Club Members
Have Formal Program Dance

Winds which blew Saturday night were real and earnest, but because they were warm gusts instead of cold blasts there were no cheery logs on the wide hearth at Santa Ana Country club as Tux and Gown club members had planned in anticipation of the November dance.

All other plans for the affair were carried out to the last detail and another successful function went down in the annals of the dancing club's short but interesting history.

In Autumn Mood
Decorations bespoke the charms of an autumn day and colorful—autumn much more likely to provide great quantities of flowers than to stir up such a wind as roared and rattled at the clubhouse windows and doors. Flowers were there in defense of the season, baby "mums" in grand array glowing in every corner.

And for every gust of wind that blew the leaves about outdoors, there were the musical blasts of Lacey Swaine's orchestra to send Tux and Gowners into a whirl of dancing. Ten dances and four extra were scheduled on the colorful programs which members filled to begin the evening's festivities.

Mrs. Clarence Ranney and Dr. G. Stanley Norton were winners of attractive prizes when they were judged the best dancers in a contest announced by George Bradley. Board members who received guests were Herbert Hill, chairman and Mrs. George Walker, Mrs. Wayne Harrison, Mrs. E. F. Bruning, Mrs. Crawford Nalle, Mrs. George Bradley, Dr. Arthur Wade, Mrs. Q. L. Hardy and Hume West.

Lovely Gowns
Many lovely gowns in a variety of color and design were in evidence at the affair. Had there been a queen of the ball, there could not have been a more likely contestant than Mrs. George Walker, a picture of youthful charm in her blue velvet gown of royal fashion. There were blue frocks in every imaginable shade, Mrs. Alvin Stauffer in powder blue; Mrs. Edward Hall in spangled lace; Mrs. Robert U. Smith in a frock generously trimmed with knife pleating.

"Betwixt and between" shades so popular this season were worn to advantage by a number of the most charmingly gowned dancers. Mrs. John Newman was in a form-fitting costume which shaded light gave a crushed grape cast. Mrs. Herbert Hill was in burgundy red; Mrs. George Bradley and Miss Alice Majors also had chosen red dresses.

Mrs. Herbert Stroschein and Mrs. Raymond Terry, vivid brunets, wore frocks in soft tints of rose; Mrs. Walter Bacon was in a graceful green gown with rhinestone trimming; Mrs. Lee Smith was in white moire with smart red plaid jacket; Mrs. Stanley Norton wore figured silk; Miss Lolita Mead was in black lace accented with a spray of gardenias; Mrs. Joseph Smith Jr. was in a clever black frock worn with red slippers; Mrs. Clarence Slemmons wore black silk and velvet.

Kiwanis Club Welcomes
Kiwanettes at Gala
Card Party

Kiwanis club opened its autumn program of social events with a gala affair last night in Ebell club house peacock room, where members and their wives, the Kiwanettes, shared party features which reached their climax at a late hour.

While guests arrived, a string trio secured for the occasion by Elwood Bear, played several selections. Contract and auction bridge were in progress at 20 tables, and there were prizes for each foursome of players. Mrs. F. P. Nickey won the door prize of the evening.

Forming a seasonal setting for the occasion were cornstalks and pumpkins as a background for many colorful bouquets of flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Raddant were general chairmen of the affair, working with assistance of Messrs. and Mesdames Clifton B. Steele, Claude Knox, W. W. Woods and E. P. Elstrom. In serving refreshments at the close of the evening, the host group had assistance of Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Scouler and of Mr. and Mrs. Lyle Mitchell.

Chrysanthemums brightened the home of Mrs. George Calhoun, 1612 Louise street this week for a sewing club meeting at which she entertained. Refreshments were served at the close of the afternoon.

In the group with the hostess were Mesdames Harry Becker, Dr. H. Tibbals, John J. Mills, Dale Elliott, Charles Lawrence, Russell Adkinson, all of this city; Mrs. Ray Dietrich, Huntington Beach.

Brothers and Sisters
Enjoy Their Annual
Autumn Reunion

That Santa Ana, long the family home of a group of Southland sisters and brothers, should be the scene of their annual reunion, seems logical, and resulted yesterday in a happy affair held here, with the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. Price, 1001 Hickory street, as the gathering place.

After the five brothers and sisters and their wives or husbands had exchanged greetings, all repaired to the Green Cat cafe where the small private dining room on the second floor, had been reserved. Chrysanthemums and candles in harmonious hues, brightened the table with an elaborate turkey dinner was served.

In the party were Dr. and Mrs. C. E. Price of this city; Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Kenna of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Sterling Price of Midway City; Mr. and Mrs. Robert V. Valle of Alhambra; Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Reed of San Diego. All of the five brothers and sisters had lived in this community a number of years ago, and Mrs. Valle as Miss Stella Price, was a teacher in Santa Ana schools. So afternoon hours spent in the Dr. C. E. Price home were devoted to reminiscing of former days here, and hearing all about old friends.

Coker Rathbone's toast "To Fathers" was responded to by Elton Nichols' toast "To Sons." Chester Briney gave a reading, "Only a Dad."

Autumn leaves and horns of plenty spilling colorful fruits brightened tables, which were appointed with strutting turkey figures as favors.

Hostesses Pay
Compliment To Popular Bride

Miss Alda Weaver, Thanksgiving day bride-elect of Kenneth Gorton, inspired a pretty affair Saturday night when Mrs. Clyde Branson, Mrs. E. M. Waycott and Mrs. Malcolm Macurda of this city were joined by Mrs. Thomas Wyllie of Huntington Beach in entertaining.

Mrs. Macurda's attractive home at 1424 Spurgeon street was setting for the affair, which was shared by a group of close friends including some of Miss Weaver's associates in the offices of the telephone company.

A glowing fire on the hearth added to the attractive setting which the hostesses had arranged for the party. Bouquets of autumn flowers and festoons of red-berried shrubbery were arranged throughout the rooms.

A contest, "the affixing of the flowers" and an appropriate game occupied the group during the early part of the evening, with prizes going to Miss Weaver and Mrs. Walter Stark who held first and second high scores.

Mrs. Wyllie sang "O Promise Me" and "Indian Love Call" with Mrs. Macurda at the piano. Little Miss Audrey and Neal Macurda, daughter and son of the home took part in a cleverly arranged entertainment feature during which they presented the bride-elect with a set of dishes on behalf of the assembled group. Audrey was attired in the pretty little blue frock with yellow trimming which she had worn this summer as flower girl at the marriage of Milton Stannard and his bride, the former Miss Mignonne Macurda.

Refreshments were served buffet style in the dining room, where all appointments were in white and silver. A bride doll centered the table, which was adorned with wreathed smilax and baby "mums." Mrs. Waycott poured coffee and Mrs. Wyllie served salad to go with frosted cakes and other dainties on individual trays.

Present in addition to the four hostesses were the honoree, Miss Weaver; Mesdames Winfred Russell, Cartha Stubbs, Walter Stark, Phyllis Hewitt, Jennie Watson, James Pospel, Harold La Prelle, and the bride's mother, Mrs. Lucy Weaver; with the Misses Helen Drinkern and Margaret Atley, and the son and daughter of the home, Neal and Audrey Macurda, all of this community, and Miss Weaver's aunt, Mrs. Wash of Van Nuys.

Santa Ana Sophomore
At Berkeley Wins
Magazine Post

That Miss Barbara Davis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles V. Davis, 1615 North Broadway, now well into her sophomore year at Berkeley, had been made chief staff artist on the "Blue and Gold," well known University of California annual, was the news which gratified her many friends of Santa Ana Junior college.

Miss Davis was one of a merry party of sorority sisters in the Southland for Saturday's game, all of them guests at the Alpha Delta Pi house on the U. S. C. campus. Mrs. Davis joined them in the city Saturday and accompanied them to the game. Miss Barbara was in Santa Ana for one night of her Southland stay. She is majoring this year in history, her original plans to make art her major, having been changed when she discovered that art studies in her freshman year at Jaycee, embodied all that the sophomore year at the University would have given her. She plans to return to it as a major next year however.

Thanksgiving will bring a four days' recess for California students, and Miss Davis plans to spend that interval at home, accompanying one of her sorority sisters whose home is in Ventura.

Allan Vaughn Elston is home also from Hollywood, for one of the 12-week intervals in his writing duties with the Republic company of the screen capital. He arrived Saturday evening and will be home now until after the holidays.

Silver Teaspoons Are
P. E. O. Gift to
Mrs. Clem

Scores of guests who Saturday afternoon accepted invitation of Mrs. Stanley A. Clem to a farewell tea in the Doris Kathryn before her departure for Phoenix, were interested in seeing the hand-some gift to the hostess, of a set of silver teaspoons from Chapter DI, P.E.O. of which she is a member.

The spoons were ranged on a flower-decorated table near the tea table itself, and aroused much admiring comment. The chapter sent also the silvered basket of flowers in sunny tones, which centered the table spread with Italian linen and lace banquet cloth. Slim little bouquet tapers sparkled amidst the blooms, as brightly as did the many larger ones in candelabra about the rooms.

Mrs. Clem's charming afternoon gown of coronation blue lace, was complimented by the shoulder spray of gardenias which was the gift of Mrs. Cood Adams, Chapter DI president. Miss Gloria Clem also wore a corsage bouquet, hers of sweet peas to harmonize with her pretty ashes of roses satin frock with its hand-quilted design on bodice and peplum. All the assisting hostesses, Mrs. Adams, Mrs. Ray Lambert, Mrs. Charles Swaner, Mrs. L. R. Wilson and Mrs. S. H. Long, were smartly gowned in afternoon formals.

Junior hostesses, aiding Miss Gloria throughout the afternoon were Miss Patricia Emison in quaint little checked tissue, with close fitting bodice and extremely full skirt; Miss Marilyn Hostetter in cherry red taffeta, and Miss Mary Towler in daffodil yellow taffeta. Their duties consisted mainly in helping serve the sandwiches, petit fours and other dainties of the tea menu.

Music by the Gracia Trio of Ocean View throughout the afternoon was only one of the many delightful features of the tea.

Seven O'clock
Wedding Given
Smart Setting

One hundred guests assembled in First Baptist church Saturday evening for a pretty ceremony uniting in marriage Miss Jeanette Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Lewis, 1110 South Birch street, and Dwight J. Ainsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse L. Ainsworth, 335 East Chapman avenue, Orange.

The bridegroom's cousin, Mr. Earl Hubert of Huntington Park sang "At Dawning" and "Ich Liebe Dich," accompanied at the organ by Mrs. R. M. Warren of Orange, who also played "Liebestraum" and the Wedding Marches.

Seven o'clock was the hour for the ceremony, read by the Rev. Harry Evan Owings. Tall tapers gleamed at the altar where yellow and white chrysanthemums were massed against a setting of palms and ferns.

Mr. Lewis gave his daughter in marriage. The bride was lovely in a white satin gown fashioned with the new front fullness, and worn with a graceful fingertip veil held in place with a fillet of white blossoms. She carried gardenias and bouvardia. Her sister, Miss Marie Lewis as maid of honor wore gown of Tulleman roses and white satin with a sheaf of Tulleman roses.

The bridegroom's brother, Milo Ainsworth, was best man. Ushers were Van Pomeroy and Joseph McKee.

Both Mrs. Lewis and Mrs. Ainsworth, mothers of the bridal couple, had chosen brown costumes for the wedding. Their corsage bouquets were of Tulleman roses and autumn-hued chrysanthemums.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Ainsworth left for a honeymoon trip north, the bride wearing a poudre blue suit with grey fox fur trim and navy blue accessories. Her corsage bouquet was of Tulleman roses. On their return, they will establish their home in Huntington Park, and the bridegroom will resume his duties with Fluor-Carbon construction company. He is a graduate of Santa Ana High school and is a member of Kappa Alpha Pi fraternity.

Mrs. Ainsworth studied at business college following her graduation from Santa Ana High school. She is a member of Sigma Theta sorority.

NEW YEAR GREETINGS BY STAMPS

The chairman of the Board of Directors of a company invited five members of the board to a dinner at his club. Seated around the table, but not in order, were the six men—Mr. Andrews, Mr. Brown, Mr. Collins, Mr. Davis, Mr. Edwards, and Mr. Freeman.

One of the men was deaf, one very large, one noisy, one very jovial, one was a brother-in-law of Mr. Freeman and one was the chairman.

The brother-in-law of Mr. Freeman sat directly across from Mr. Edwards. The deaf man sat across from Mr. Brown, who sat between the jovial man and the brother-in-law of Mr. Freeman. The large man sat across from Mr. Collins. Next to the deaf man and to the left of Mr. Freeman's brother-in-law, the jovial man sat between Mr. Brown and the man who sat across from Mr. Freeman's brother-in-law. Mr. Andrews, who was held in high esteem by all, especially Mr. Freeman, sat next to the large man and opposite the chairman.

Can you identify each of the men?

STATE OFFICER IS SPEAKER AT NEWPORT EBELL

NEWPORT BEACH, Nov. 9.—Mrs. Frederick Schwartz of Monrovia, state chairman of arts and crafts of Women's clubs of California, was the guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Newport Beach Ebells club.

Mrs. Schwartz said that many women's clubs were adding art sections to their organizations, quoting Rabbi Magnin of Los Angeles, as saying that during the depression those who stood it best were those interested in the fine arts. In our everyday lives, she stated, we use our hands less than ever before and that the wide spread interest in crafts has put our hands to a constructive use.

Mrs. Schwartz brought with her many samples of her work to display including wood carving, leather tooling, book binding, batik and various other objects of interest.

The welfare chairman, Mrs. Frank Lewis, stressed the need of supporting the Red Cross as much as possible and made a last call for donations to the rummage sale which will be held in the former bank building at Newport on November 14.

Mrs. Heinz Kaiser and Mrs. E. I. Moore were named delegate and alternate to the coming convention at Palm Springs.

The next garden section meeting was announced for November 12 at the home of Mrs. Helen Moeller, at which time Mrs. H. Cardozo Sloan will talk on New England gardens. Roll call will be answered with verses from New England poets and there will be a slip and plant exchange.

Echoes from the Orange county convention were given by Mrs. D. S. Lloyd, reporting on the morning activities and Mrs. R. H. Summers on the afternoon session.

Mrs. George B. Findley and Miss Margaret L. Schaefer were welcomed as new members. Serving as hostesses for the afternoon were Mrs. Martha D. Howe and Mrs. R. L. Boyd.

HARVARD MILITARY SCHOOL IS SCENE OF WEDDING CEREMONY

FULLERTON, Nov. 9.—With more than 250 friends as guests, the wedding rites that united Miss Katharine Elizabeth Hampton to Robert L. Corfman were read by Bishop Goodan of Los Angeles at the wedding chapel of the Harvard Military school at Western avenue and Venice boulevard Saturday at 8 p. m.

The bride is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Hampton of East Orange, and the groom is son of Dr. and Mrs. C. L. Corfman of Beverly Hills. She was born on the ranch home. Both her parents are teachers, her father at a Los Angeles high school and the mother at Placentia.

The father gave his daughter away during the Episcopal wedding rites. She was dressed in a sheer white velvet gown, cut on Mary Queen of Scots lines, with seed pearls at the neck line, and wearing over this a white tulle veil with a coronet trimmed in pearls and orange blossoms, and a bouquet of white and red roses, white and white orchids, lavender and white orchids, tied with pale yellow ribbon.

Her maid of honor, Miss Lorraine Burnett of Los Angeles, a cousin, wore a wine red empire style dress with a Mary Queen of Scots hat, and carried a colonial bouquet of red and white roses and carnations. The little flower girl, Joyce Reed, a cousin of the bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Reed of San Gabriel, was dressed in a red velvet dress, a replica of that worn by the maid of honor, and instead of scattering flowers carried a miniature bouquet like that of Miss Burnett.

Three sorority sisters, Miss Raydene Greene of Taft, Miss Cecelia Butterworth of Los Angeles, and Miss Harriett Stone of Banning, and a special friend, Miss Virginia Moffett of West Orange, were bridesmaids. All wore coronation blue velvet cut on the same style as the dress of the maid of honor and the little flower girl.

The bridegroom was attended by Arthur Hamilton of Redlands, best man, and four fraternity brothers, Frank Hedrick, Wayland Franklin, Charles Blackton, and Frank Andrews of Los Angeles.

J. Harold Peterson of San Diego and Los Angeles, sang Schubert's "Serenade" and "Because" prior to the wedding march.

The chapel in which the ceremony was read is on the campus of the school that the bridegroom attended at one time, and is a replica of the Cambridge England chapel.

Following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Hampton, assisted by Miss Virginia Lagrange, Miss Genevieve Jones, Miss Dorothy Dausner, Miss Phyllis Corcoran, Fullerton, and Mrs. Peggy Bowen Payton received the special friends and wedding party at a reception at Alpha Omicron Pi sorority house at U.C.L.A. at Westwood. Following that, the young couple left for a wedding trip. On their return they will reside at 1521 South Westmoreland, Los Angeles. Mr. Corfman is employed in Los Angeles with the California Casualty company. The bride was graduated from Fullerton schools and from U.C.L.A.

A NEW FRIEND

The Register is glad to announce that in this issue there appears a new friend in its columns. It is in the form of little Orphan Annie, run with the "funnies" as a comic strip.

It is, in reality, a philosophy of honesty, courage, perseverance, kindness mixed with humor, excitement and adventure. We do not believe there is another strip in America with equally good qualities. It is one of the leading strips of the Chicago-Tribune Syndicate.

We have told the author previously, before we knew the strip was available, that we believed he was preaching a greater lesson to the American people than any editor in the United States. We are quite sure that it will have a good influence on every boy and girl who reads it and we also believe that grown-ups will greatly enjoy the philosophy and entertainment.

We are very glad to be able to present this wonderful combination feature of entertainment, amusement, excitement, adventure with intelligent character building requisites. To our mind, it is the peer of all comic strips because it has these wonderful combinations of entertainment and education.

WAGES AND PURCHASING POWER

The new school of thought is that purchasing power comes from wages; that the higher the wages the greater the purchasing power. This is a new philosophy of economics and is probably believed by the great majority of people. We personally cannot understand such a philosophy as much as we would like to believe it. We cannot help but wonder how wages add to purchasing power unless the workers produce more new wealth than they consume.

We believe that there is no increase in purchasing power if there be $50,000 paid out in wages in an attempt to bring in an oil field and there is no oil produced. There has not been a particle of increase in purchasing power because of this $50,000 paid out in wages. It has only been transferred from those who have attempted to bring in the new field to the workers for the expenditure of their energy.

Had the workers discovered the new oil field and greatly added to the wealth, then there would have been an increase in the purchasing power.

But the paying out of wages, which is not accompanied by adding to the national wealth, as we see it, in no way increases the purchasing power.

We are going through a great series of experiments to determine whether purchasing power can be increased by arbitrarily increasing wages.

We now have a maritime strike. If the wages of these men are increased for the same amount of services there will be no increase in purchasing power. It will be just a transfer of purchasing power from the consumer of the things transported or from the shipowners. In fact, if the wages are increased beyond what other people can get for the expenditure of the same energy, it will reduce the total purchasing power because the work at the fictitious wages will be shared and, as a result, there will be a lot of idle time that produces no wealth. So the total purchasing power will be less if the wages are too high than if the wages are in proportion to other wages for the same energy.

We would like very much to believe that increased wages without increased production did increase purchasing power and we would appreciate it very much if any one would give us data and evidence so that we could believe it.

TENDER CONSCIENCES

In the United States treasury is a "conscience fund" of $623,313.54, made up of money returned by citizens who believed they had done the government wrong in the past.

Within recent weeks, eight such contributions have been received, one of which was a nickel sent in by a man who, years before, had used a postage stamp twice.

It is not hard to imagine the relief such refunds bring tender consciences, but sophisticates will probably chuckle at people who let such small dishonesties prey so heavily on their minds.

Nevertheless, we could do with more people who have the ability to be worried by their minor sins.

WORTHY MOVEMENT

No one needs to be told, of course, that the Boy Scout movement is an extremely valuable thing. Still, it does not hurt to be reminded that cold statistics thoroughly bear out the organization's claim to usefulness.

For example: Douglas D. Blocksma of the University of Michigan recently made a careful check of juvenile court records, school census figures, and Boy Scout enrollment in Grand Rapids, Mich. He discovered that from 1932 to 1935 there was about one-third as much juvenile delinquency among Boy Scouts as among youngsters who did not have the benefit of Scout training.

There is nothing surprising about these figures. The value of Scout training is taken for granted, by now. But it is interesting to see how the figures prove the organization's usefulness.

LONELY EMPEROR

When he occupied the dragon throne of China, Kang Teh lived in dazzling splendor, with hordes of attendants. He is now nominally emperor of Manchukuo, Japanese-controlled empire. And, according to a recent news dispatch, he is living quietly and almost alone in an old, barn-like building, "the loneliest and most isolated monarch in the world."

Years ago Edward Everett Hale penned "A Man Without a Country." Because of a youthful indiscretion, the hero of this tale was deprived of his citizenship and fated to pass his life sailing between countries, unable to claim one as his own.

The lot of a man without a country was pictured as an intensely tragic one. But perhaps the plight of a man, such as Kang Teh, who has given up one country for another, is just as pathetic.

BALANCING THE BUDGET WITH INCREASED INCOME

It has been repeatedly said that as our national income increases we can balance our budget. It would seem to us that this declaration is not true because as the cost of living goes up, those people working for the government will demand an increase in wages in proportion to the increased cost of living so that the cost of the government will advance as our national income advances. The problem of balancing the budget is not as simple as increasing the national income by inflation of any kind.

The national budget can be balanced only by greater production so long as the government takes such a large fraction of the national income or by the government reducing its expenditures.

Day By Day In Washington

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyright, 1936)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—There's a mystery in the election returns of last Tuesday which is causing a great deal of discussion and conjecture. Expressed in its simplest form, it is this: Why was not the landslide sensed in advance and why was it that so many persons familiar with the local situations in various states believed the results in their particular states might be close?

The answer is not to be found by merely criticizing the judgment of these observers or to assume that they were doing wishful thinking, because percentage of error of men inside the New Deal was almost as great in trying to anticipate the electoral vote and the popular vote as by people who were on the outside.

It has seemed to me that the subject was worth investigating because it may throw light on the meaning of the election itself. Accordingly, I telegraphed two outstanding reporters—one in Indiana and one in Minnesota—men who have for more than 25 years written national politics and studied their situations with the utmost thoroughness and fairness.

When I visited their states, these two men advised me that Roosevelt would probably carry them. I checked back with them just a few days before the election, and while both seemed more certain of the probability of a Roosevelt victory, neither had any inkling of the landslide that was coming. I discover now also that the men on the inside of the political management didn't know and were surprised at the outcome.

In Indianapolis, Robert G. Tucker has for many years written about Indiana politics. He made a tour of most of the counties of the state in October and had unusually good sources of information in both parties. I received the following telegram from him today:

"In my final forecast I pointed out there was likelihood of Roosevelt landslide in Indiana but if Landon won here it would be by close vote. There never was a chance for Landon in Indiana except by the narrowest sort of margin but polls of factory workers in Gary, South Bend, and other industrial centers indicated possibility of a tremendous vote for Roosevelt who obviously gained marked strength in final week."

My forecast was for a minimum of 60,000 for Roosevelt with possibility of more than 100,000. Democratic state organization polls completed after your visit here showed Roosevelt to win by more than 132,000. As you know from 20 to 25 per cent of voters on both party poll books were listed as independents or doubtfuls. They and Roosevelt's unexpected strength among farmers probably provide key to the outcome.

Test polls taken by Democratic managers here of "doubtful" week before election, indicated three out of four might vote for him. Roosevelt was supported by large majority of "doubtfuls" in Indiana.

In writing my own forecast, I put both Minnesota and Indiana in the Roosevelt column, but did not believe the margin would be big. When I visited Indiana, I took pains to inquire what the "doubtfuls" on the private polls taken by both parties really meant. The canvassers did not know. They insisted that the

"Personally my view is that Roosevelt's Saturday night speech in New York turned many wavering business men and upper class employees from him because they didn't like what he said about desiring to become a master but that speech obviously set the stage for him tremendously with the lower brackets with whom he was strong throughout the campaign."

"Also there are reports that last-hour drive on social security tax actually became a roorback against Landon. There was an unusual registration and heaviest vote in Indiana history which helped to swell Roosevelt total."

"With Labor, WPA, the Negroes, miners and their families, CCC men as the backlog of support for Roosevelt there never was any excuse for thinking he would fall much below 100,000. He seems to have had the 'doubtfuls' and they account largely for the landslide."

Now, after reading the above, in which the highest that the Democratic management estimated as a result of their private canvass was 143,000 majority for Roosevelt, which was probably a top figure as political estimates go, it is interesting to look at the latest returns, where we find that Mr. Roosevelt carried Indiana by 234,253.

Thus did the Democratic managers themselves in Indiana, who ought to know their own state and who certainly were not looking at the situation through prejudiced eyes, make a mistake of nearly 100,000 in estimating the final majority. The same was true of the political managers on the Democratic side in other states, and it develops that the president himself, who ought to have the best sources of data, did not forecast beyond 360 electoral votes, and actually got 523.

Now let us look at Minnesota, where Charles B. Cheney, another one of the country's outstanding reporters on politics, with an especial familiarity with Minnesota politics extending over a quarter of a century, was of the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt would carry the state, but he did not sense the landslide. His telegram in response to my inquiry says:

"Roosevelt sentiment appeared all along to be in the ascendancy. Only reason for hedging and predicting a close vote was Landon's showing in the polls. It is evident now that opposition to Roosevelt was more intense and anxious to make a showing and to win a greater part in polls."

"I would say that the chief invisible factor was the employees who were quietly for Roosevelt because they knew employers favored Landon. Opposition to the Canadian treaty among dairy farmers did not make the expected showing in votes."

In looking over the final results, we find that with about one-fifth of the precincts still unreported, the Roosevelt majority was 264,000. It was not close at all.

In writing my own forecast, I put both Minnesota and Indiana in the Roosevelt column, but did not believe the margin would be big. When I visited Indiana, I took pains to inquire what the "doubtfuls" on the private polls taken by both parties really meant. The canvassers did not know. They insisted that the

This afternoon I went in the house to ask ma for money to go around and see the Kut Up Komedy at the Little Grand on account of Puds Simkins having went in his house to ask his mother, and ma was sewing on her sewing machine and I said, Hay ma?

Hay is for horses and it's no way for a boy to address his mother, ma said.

Sounding like a bad start, and I stood there watching her sewing a while, saying, G, ma, your fingers certainly move fast, I bet a lot of ladies would get their fingers caught in there, but you never do, do you ma?

Not up to the present, thank goodness touch wood, ma said, and pritty soon I said, Well G, ma, I wanted to ask you something.

And I want to ask you something, come to think of it, I said. I want to ask you to kind-wipe your feet on the doormat in wet weather. The front hall carpet is full of your foot marks and you've been told time and time again, she said, and I said, Well I bet I won't have to be told any more times, ma, I bet I've reformed rite now.

And I started to wait another little while for the coast to clear again, and ma said, Owch, I've gone and pinched my finger and it'll properly turn a nasty black and blue. Now isn't that provoking, now why did you have to go and mention about getting my fingers caught? It never could of happened otherwise because I never has before. Hereafter if you can't think of anything constructive to say, please keep quiet. What do you want, anyway, what are you crowding around my elbow for? What is it for land sake?

Nothing, I mean I just thaw! I'd stop a minnit on my way upstairs and down again, I said, and ma said, Well the minnit's been up for some minnits.

Being a hint for me to keep on going down again, wich I did without mentioning the Little Grand.

Proving there's a time for everything and there's no use forcing the wrong time.

voters wouldn't say. It occurred to me that a Republican voter on the WPA payroll might be afraid to tell a Republican canvasser that he was going to vote for Roosevelt, but why should the same voter hesitate to tell a Democratic canvasser his intentions?

It begins to look as if the people in the low income brackets not only took a vital interest in the election, but that they were reticent about expressing themselves in advance for fear of reprisals if the election went against the candidate of their choice. This is a factor to be reckoned with in the future by both parties, especially as the size of the electorate grows to such huge totals as were reached last Tuesday.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

NOW THAT THE ELECTION IS OVER

The election is over!

We have selected a President of the United States. And that is what we want him to be—not president of the farmers, not president of the workers, not president of the bankers, not president of the business men, not the tool of any pressure group. Not the chief of any class—BUT President of the United States.

We want him to wear no man's collar.

We want him to retire the obsolete and retain the eternal elements in our national tradition.

We want him to play for the unity of our people.

We want him to set his face like flint against the kind of class division, class prejudice, and class hatred that has despoiled the life of so many other peoples of the world.

We want him to think clearly and speak candidly about what he thinks the role of the federal government must be in meeting the current problems our society presents.

We want him to do everything within his power to bring about an honest collaboration between the two major parties in the next session of the congress.

If there are points at which the federal government should have greater power—and there are such points—we want him to speak frankly of these points, devise new safeguards against the political abuse of these added powers, and then ask frankly for the additional authority.

We want him to hold the mind of the nation closely tethered to the philosophy of democratic self-government.

We want him to appeal to the best there is in us as a people and weld us into a fighting fraternity for the common good.

Mr. President, a nation salutes you!

May God give you strength and wisdom equal to your responsibility!

OUR CHILDREN

BY ANGELO PATRI

THE BABY

"Now, now, Harvey, don't do that. Let him alone. You must remember he is the baby."

"For goodness sake, mother, how long is he to be the baby?"

"Now, now, Harvey, don't talk like that. He is always the baby because he is the youngest, and you can't expect him to be like you. You have to remember how much older you are. Be patient with him."

"I am patient with him. Too patient. I ought to swat him for his impudence and his interference with my belongings, and his butting into my affairs generally. I'm not the only one who is finding him a nuisance. The first thing he knows he won't have a friend in the world. I'm for teaching him to grow up as fast as he knows how. He's eight years old, and he whines like a pup. Maybe you think it is all right, but nobody else does, I can tell you that."

"Well, I'm his mother and I ought to know. You are all grown up, and soon you'll be going away and I'll be left all alone. If Bunny stays young a while—"

"Mother, he's eight. He ought to be out messing it up with the other kids. Instead of that he is forever poking about where he doesn't belong. He is saucy to anybody who speaks to him. He has no manners and no consideration for anybody. You're just about ruining that kid, and I'm sorry for him."

"Now what is he doing that is so bad? You're too fussy. You forget that you were not always twenty. Once you were eight, too."

"M-m-m. And did I whine at the table? Did Marie or Tom or I ever refuse to sit down to a meal until we got a piece of cake or candy? Did we ever throw our things all over the place, cheek anybody who spoke to us, come late to meals, tell you that we would do as we liked and do it? Not that you know, did we? You are not being kind to the kid by telling him he is the baby and teaching him that he can get away with anything he wants. I brought him home just now because he was running back and forth across the neighbor's lawn, calling a half dozen dogs after him, offering them something to eat and not giving it to them. Just raising Cain. Mrs. Newark said he was the worst spoiled brat in the neighborhood. You know that doesn't sit so well, coming from a woman like her."

"Of course you would feel bad

if she said anything, you being so thick with her Helen. She needn't talk. But of course I wouldn't want Bunny to call the dogs like that. One might bite him, and then what would we do? They ought to tie up their dogs."

"We ought to tie up Bunny. And stop telling him he is the baby. You don't want a baby of eight about the place. I'd like to see him sent to a boarding school and pulled up into a husky boy. And I think you'd be glad to have him grow out of this, after it happened. Someday you'll get sick of a baby with a man-sized hat on its head."

When a child does not emerge from babyhood by the time he is two, there is something wrong either with his rearing or with him. Don't ever prolong babyhood, infancy, or any other passing phase of child growth. It is dangerous.

NEWS BEHIND THE NEWS

By PAUL MALLON

PLANTING—WASHINGTON, Nov. 9.—Some of these current cabinet resignations can be traced down to purposes which are not entirely dispassionate.

That is, one official has been known to believe and pass on the suspicion that another official may have his head lopped off, especially if the party of the first art happens to have a personal dislike for the party of the second art, or wants the job for himself or a friend.

In this way, stories get around and are frequently emphasized by petition, although none of the arties of any part really knows that the president thinks.

RIGHT

The funniest part of it is the effect these rumors have on the cabinet members affected. Two of em, at least, have been worked to a mental state of resignation simply because they keep reading about it in the newspapers. They are not known any more about what is president has in mind than you are. But they keep noting that their resignation is expected until they begin to believe that perhaps the president himself has tipped someone who is spreading the word.

One such official, for instance, had a good friend a month ago when he would definitely retire within the first six months of President Roosevelt's second term. He saw from what a big source the rumors concerning his resignation emanated.

But after the post-election cabinet meeting the other day, he told a same friend that, if the president wanted him to remain, he could do so. The cabinet member had fully recovered from his earlier fright.

FEEDING

As a matter of fact, a wholesale organization of the cabinet is not now and never has been seriously considered. The cabinet is generally regarded by Mr. Roosevelt's good friends, who are not personally biased, as far from the best the country ever had. No more than three or four were of any great benefit to the president in the campaign.

A gradual reorganization will take place within the next two years, due to individual replacements from time to time, made after retirements caused by mind and body.

But these will make no more difference in establishing the policy complexion or direction of Mr. Roosevelt than a reorganization of White House doormen. They will be important only to the society leaders of Washington, who seem to be more seriously concerned than anyone else, just at the moment.

NOTES FOR SOCIAL LEADERS

Mise Perkins has leased her house for another year. Mrs. Woodring is buying a new Aubusson rug to match her parlor furniture. Mr. Morgenthau does not want to be ambassador to anywhere. Mr. Roper would like to retire, but will remain on if the president wants him to stay.

MISCALCULATIONS

If you missed your guess on the election, you need not feel forlorn. The president guessed he would get 360, and Mr. Hurja, the nonpareil, handed Chairman Farley a last minute rock-bottom estimate of 370.

Not only these national leaders underestimated their own majorities, but even the county and ward leaders did not fully appreciate their strength. For instance, an old time Democrat drove home in Virginia to vote for Mr. Roosevelt on election day. He saw the three Democratic county leaders sitting on the court house steps, and asked how things were going.

"Not very good," replied the spokesman. "A lot of people have just come in here to vote that we have not seen since 1928, when they came in to vote against Al Smith. We need every vote we can get."

Next day, when the votes were counted, the result was almost unanimous for Roosevelt. Every one of the suspected unknown voters had voted for Roosevelt instead of against him.

PERFECTION

Chairman Farley never gets any credit. On the third successive biennial occasion, his election prediction was almost exactly perfect, and far better than that of the president. No national chairman has ever had such a record, including Mark Hanna, who had better reasons to know how elections were going than some. The results would also indicate no one ever had a better organization. Yet no authority has yet called Farley the greatest national chairman in history. Perhaps time will tell it.

LESSON

The only perfect campaign is said to have been that conducted by Congressman Tinkham, the Boston Republican. He went to Europe after the conventions and remained there. Arriving in New York on the Queen Mary, the night before election, he went home only to vote, and won easily.

ERROR

There is a rumor that a Republican was elected state senator in a town in the coal regions of Pennsylvania, but no explanation of the mistake has reached Democratic headquarters here. They say it must have been an oversight.

The only perfect campaign is said to have been that conducted by Congressman Tinkham, the Boston Republican. He went to Europe after the conventions and remained there. Arriving in New York on the Queen Mary, the night before election, he went home only to vote, and won easily.
